About

ARBMIDAS (AMIDAS) Token in the ARBITRUM ONE ecosystem. $ARBMIDAS token can be used for staking on the POS platform to earn rewards in $OTHER Token. It can also be used on the NFT platform to farm and earn $OTHER Token. The ARBMIDAS token has an AntiBot contract.

The $ARBMIDAS Token will never be rewarded or earned. The team only wants to sell a small amount of SEED tokens to start building the project. This action helps control the dumping price when the token is added to liquidity on the Dex. Additionally, the token has an Antibot feature.

$ARBToken (AMIDAS) has plans to add liquidity to a few DEX exchanges, open a few staking token pools, and introduce NFT staking.

The total supply of $ARBMIDAS (AMIDAS) tokens is 10,000,000,000. Due to the rapid growth of the crypto market, the team wants to stay with the trend and build a strong project with a solid community. They plan to mint some ARBMIDAS tokens on other chains, for example, minting 1,000,000,000 tokens on a new chain and sending the same number of tokens to a dead wallet on the arbitrum chain. This action maintains the same total supply of 10,000,000,000 ARBMIDAS tokens.

Utility

1. Definition: Arbmidas token will be used for Trading and Staking.
2. Functionality: Arbmidas will be listed on decentralized exchanges.
3. Value proposition: Arbmidas is built on the Arbitrum chain, resulting in lower transaction fees compared to the Ethereum chain.
4. Tokenomics: Arbmidas token is sold as only 0.0049756% of the total supply of 10 billion tokens, meaning a very small percentage will be dumped after listing on Dex.
5. Use cases: Provide examples of real-world applications where utility tokens are being effectively used, such as decentralized finance (DeFi) platforms, real investments, content creation, and new ad networks.
6. Future outlook: Offer insights into the future prospects of utility tokens and how they might evolve in response to technological advancements or changing market dynamics.
